

Centrally manage your lending and deposit programs across branches

What does it do?

ComplianceOne's centralized administration capabilities allow you to efficiently manage your lending and deposit policies and products for all your locations using one centralized control center.

- Implement straightforward to complex business policies, procedures, and products—through multiple jurisdictions
- Create, update, and change policies and products across lines of business and branches
- Get in front of competition quicker, with new products, by updating one centralized policy control center

The Setup tab allows you to implement policies and procedures across multiple branches and define user rights. As you can see, there are separate tabs for Lending and Deposit—to specify standards for each line of business—and a Utilities tab to help you manage reports and account records.

See reverse side for more information.

What's in it for you?

Instead of having separate line-of-business administrative systems for your policies and procedures, ComplianceOne runs multiple lines of business from one centralized system thereby eliminating rework and improving consistency throughout your organization. Such an efficient, streamlined, and productive process helps you get a hand up on the competition.

How can you get it?

Because the administrative functions are built as part of ComplianceOne, you can take advantage of its capabilities automatically with the implementation of the ComplianceOne solution.
